DESIGNERS ROBERTO RACY AND NICHOLAS GENNARI ADVOCATE FOR THE ORGANIC AUSTERITY OF ZAHA HADID ARCHITECTS' MINERA TABLE

TEXT CHRISTOPHER DAY

THE TASTEMAKERS: Roberto Racy and Nicholas Gennari head up Miami's Nar Design Studio, an interior design firm with commercial and residential projects all over the country, and award recognitions from the United States, United Kingdom, Germany, France, and Hungary.

THE OBJECT: Part of the Erosion Collection by Zaha Hadid Architects for Neutra, the Minera table (revealed earlier this year at Milan Design Week) is crafted from a single block of Carrara marble and accommodates up to eight people. The piece is one of eight in the world.

IN THEIR WORDS: "The Minera reaches a superior level of craftsmanship and design through its bespoke curves," says Gennari. "It's a unique interpretation of biophilic design with futuristic nuances." "It's the type of piece I would use with any client who loves to entertain," says Racy. "That is, as long as that client wants to make it the centerpiece of the home." nardesignstudio.com; neutradesign.it
